

COLUMBUS DAY.

Chicago Overflowing and Still They Come.

Every State in the Union and Many Foreign Countries Represented.

The World's Fair City Never So Beautiful as It Now Appears in Holiday Attire—The Auditorium Radiant With Countless Myriads of Lights.

CHICAGO, Oct. 20.—The dedicatory ceremonies of the World's Columbian exposition were inaugurated Wednesday, beginning with the reception and entertainment of distinguished visitors by the various committees on their arrival in the city, and followed in the evening by the formal inaugural reception by the citizens of Chicago to the guests of honor.

A pleasant prelude was the "Columbus Day" celebration Wednesday afternoon by thousands of school children throughout the city.

Chicago and New York are now connected by telephone.

THE BEAR.

Report of Capt. Healy to the Secretary of the Treasury.

His Ship Evidently Cut out for Good Work Along Alaska.

The Season Has Been Particularly Open—The Schooner May D. Hume Made an Extraordinary Catch of Whale—The Bear Will Be Guarded.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—Capt. M. A. Healy, U. S. N., in a long report to the secretary of the treasury, dated Unalakleet, September 25, of the cruise of the steamer Bear in north Arctic waters, says that the station promulgated the order projected at the Department and succeeded in introducing reindeer in Unalakleet.

In giving a detailed account of the cruise of the revenue steamer Bear, Capt. Healy says that the annual visit of the vessel to Northern Alaska has now become a time for the adjustment of the differences of all kinds, the starting of new enterprises and the correction of various abuses.

Capt. Healy says the season has been particularly open, and nearly the entire whaling fleet and gone east of Point Barrow when the Bear sailed south.

The schooner May D. Hume made an extraordinary catch of thirty-nine whales during the spring. The establishment of the refuge station at Point Barrow, with the introduction of provisions, has encouraged whalers to go further north and into more profitable places in pursuit of their trade, with the knowledge that in case of accident they will not be left to the mercy of an arctic winter without food or shelter.

Capt. Healy says that his efforts to prevent the introduction of spirituous liquors were unusually successful despite the great extent of territory to be patrolled, and he is of the opinion that the knowledge that the liquor traffic out of the country. The Bear will assist the United States steamer until December 1.

TROUBLE NOT SETTLED.
That Telegrapher's Jobs May Turn Out Most Severe.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 20.—It is reported here that the Gulf, Colorado & Northern Pacific R. Co. has agreed to take the place of the strikers. It is apprehended that this action by the railway company means a suspension of negotiations with the strikers and that it will result in a strike on the whole system, which this time will be to joke.

NEW YORK, Tex., Oct. 20.—The following telegram was received at midnight from Cleburne: A committee of O. R. T. men called a meeting of all the workers in the city and asked them to take the place of the strikers. The committee was advised that the strike was not justifiable and that they should return to work and have Chief Ramsey come to Galveston and settle matters with President Robinson and General Manager Williams. They also agreed that they could not give them any support.

Celebration Opened at Cincinnati.
CINCINNATI, Oct. 20.—Wednesday afternoon the celebration of the Columbian centennial was opened at the city hall. The celebration was held in the city hall, where the public schools. There were fully 15,000 in line, variously and tastefully costumed. On Thursday the parade of the Catholic school children takes place, and the musical program at Music hall on Thursday night, while on Friday the civic parade and pageantry and concert at Music hall will culminate the festivities.

Monroe Home Cor-er-er-Laid.
SPRINGFIELD, O., Oct. 20.—The grand lodge of the Grand Old Men of the World met Wednesday morning in eighty-third annual session, in the city hall. Hon. Levi C. Goodale, of Cincinnati, gave the invocation at 9 p. m. the corner-stone exercises began. The block was laid by Grand Master Goodale, after the regular ritualistic exercises. Hon. H. B. Harbo, of Toledo, then delivered an oration. Fully 13,000 strangers were present. The building, which cost $75,000, will be completed by this time and will be a grand and all state conventions of masons will be held here.

Clerks Going Home to Vote.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—The department clerks are preparing to go home to vote. Already several hundred voters have taken advantage of the low rates of travel and are on their way. The exodus will steadily continue until a few days before election, by which time it is expected that fully 5,000 men will have left for the home.

A Cholera Scare.

A reported outbreak of cholera at Helmetta, N. J., created much excitement in that vicinity. Investigation showed that the disease was not cholera but a violent dysentery, which is almost as severe and dangerous as cholera. Mr. Walter Wiland, a prominent merchant of Jamesburg, two miles from Helmetta, says Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy has given great satisfaction in the most severe cases of dysentery. It is certainly one of the best things made. For sale by Power & Reynolds, Druggists.

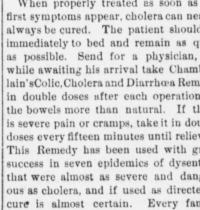

He's All Right.
Flemingburg Gazette.—John P. McCartney returned last Thursday afternoon from a campaigning trip, on which he took in the cities of Curtis, Vanceburg and Tolleboro, large crowds greeting him at each place, and the newspapers all, both Democratic and Republican, speak highly of his efforts. Republicans of the Ninth District to a man will support him, and many Democrats will vote for him on account of superior qualifications and high personal character.

The Forester Continues.
It pleases the lawyer and his client, too, to have the verdict of the jury unanimous. A great jury composed of the American public has rendered an unanimous verdict on Dr. Hale's House-hold Cough Cure as a medicine, agreeing that its promise of a speedy cure for coughs, colds and bronchial troubles are always carried out to the letter. This pleasant verdict has not been obtained without great pains taken to make it the best cough cure on the market. Try a bottle with a friend, and you will know that you will belong to the "unanimous" ever after. For sale by Power & Reynolds, Druggists.

Celebration at St. Mary's School.
The Columbus Centennial will be fittingly celebrated by the pupils of St. Mary's School, Washington. A novel arrangement by which the anniversaries of the battles and victories of our Nation are commemorated is practiced at the daily flag raising, on which occasion one of the pupils narrates in a brief manner the event, the Commanders who took part in the strife and the number of American heroes who fell on that day.

The following is a practice at Friday: Flag Raising, Salute by the School, Address, Oath of Patriotism, Administration by Ruffie Bell, Refreshments.

In the absence of Rev. Father Bealer, who will attend the National banquet and reception at the Grand Hotel, the school Trustees will conduct the ceremonies.

GIRLS IN A FIRE COMPANY.

Protectors of an English College Building Worth Millions of Dollars.

One of the most interesting things about the Holloway College for Women, in Surrey, is the fire brigade of girl students, who are trained to protect the magnificent four-million-dollar building from the possibility of destruction by fire. From a large water tower the hydrant supply is distributed by water mains all over the vast building, and last October the fire brigade was regularly organized, with Miss Bishop, the principal, as captain. In describing their methods of work a correspondent of the Philadelphia Press says: The "Holloway Volunteer Brigade" formed in three sections of ten students each, these representing the occupants of different floors. They were drawn up in line at "Right turn! Quick march! Position!" Then each section went quite through with two full drills. A fire in sitting-room No. 10 was supposed. At command: "Get to work!" the engine was run down to the doorway, a "chain" of recruits was formed to the nearest source of water supply, and the buckets were handed in line that the engine might be kept in full play. The pump was vigorously applied by two girls, while the drill of the small hand hose quickly and ingeniously, so that the engine was at full speed in less than a minute. When the drill was concluded with the orders: "Knock off" and "Make up" everything had been put in its own place.

Then came the "hydrant drill," which was conducted at the hydrant nearest the point of a supposed outbreak of fire. In this six students from each section took part. Directly the alarm was given one hundred feet of canvas hose was run out and an additional length (regulated, of course, by the distance) was joined to it. At the words "Turn out" by the officer known as the "branch hoseman," the hose was directed so that had the hose been water in it it must have streamed on to the supposed fire. This drill was also accomplished in only a minute, and at the command "Knock off" and "Make up" the hose pipes were promptly disconnected, the pipe that is always kept attached to the hydrant was "slacked" down, and an extra one hundred feet "coiled up" on the light with astonishing rapidity.

GOOD LUCK MADE HIM MAD.
Disastrous Result of Finding a Roll of Bills in the Street.
I have a friend, says a correspondent of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, who was driven mad by a marvelous streak of good luck. He was a young newspaper reporter who was just learning the business, and who had clocked out a precarious existence for a year on twelve dollars a week. Walking alone one day he found thirty-seven hundred dollars wrapped up in a bundle with a rubber string around it. Frenzied with delight at his good fortune, he struck a bee line for the newspaper office where he was employed, resigned his position without assigning any cause, and left Milwaukee on the first train to Chicago. In that city he lived riotously for eight months, and, though by rigid advertisements in the papers of the unfortunate bank collector who had lost the money, offering one-half of it if the finder would return it, he paid no attention to these appeals. At the end of that time he "blew in" all the money and then came back to Milwaukee. Here he was a different man from what he was when he left in such delirious glee. His old position at an increased salary was offered to him, but this he refused, though he didn't have a cent. He did no work nor did he want any. He put in his time walking up and down the street on which he had found the money. Day in and day out he tramped that street with his head bent forward like a man looking for a pin on the sidewalk. He kept this up for nearly a month. Continual and dogged disappointment made the strain too great for him to bear. His mind broke down under it, and he was carried to the asylum a raving maniac. He is in the asylum now, his lunacy is pronounced incurable, and he is the most pitiable, abject creature I ever saw.

Black Hills Notes Proposed.
Sir Henry Bessemer recommends the issuance for monetary purposes of what may be called a bank note made of metal. It would answer all required purposes and would make forgery and fraud next to impossible. His proposition is to take a thin plate of aluminum, suitably stamped and engraved, about the size of the dollar, this disk of "the strange new white metal" to serve the purpose which the one pound English bank notes now fill; that is to say, it would represent the value of one pound and should be made redeemable on presentation. Its intrinsic value would be small, of course, but by means of a newly invented process it could be made so that it would defy all the ingenuity of the forger, which would really make it a thing of great value after all. The metal is so light that the little aluminum disk could never be mistaken for a silver coin; and it would surely be a much pleasanter thing to handle than a crumpled, dirty bank note, impregnated, possibly, with the germs of many diseases.

A Great Snake Story.
In Marianne North's "Recollections of a Happy Life" is a description of a tame snake. Its mistress would sometimes visit the creature in the great plat of hair she wore around her head, and once threatened to go down, thus decorated, to a dinner party of rather aristocratic people. One of the male's own eccentricities serves to distinguish it among all other reptiles of a similar nature which have served as pets. It was so fond of glittering things as its mistress, and when she took off her many rings and placed them on different parts of her table it would go about collecting them and stringing them on its body. It would then tie itself in a knot, so that the rings would not be taken off, and it was pleased to untie itself again.

ONE MILE TO THE MOON.

What a South American Hopes to Accomplish with a Telescope.

Marvels to Be Produced by the Use of Reflecting Mirrors—The United States to Be the Field of Development.

Let any scientific reader stand on an unobstructed plain and look at an object one mile away and he will find that he can distinguish in a very clear way not only the outlines, but even minute portions of the object. If, then, the moon could be brought to within an apparent distance of one mile from the earth, what a possibility of scientific discovery would be opened up. This possibility of discovery is what a live and energetic gentleman from Colombia, South America, feels certain he is able to accomplish, and if success crowns his efforts there will be exhibited at the world's fair a reflecting telescope so much greater in power than anything yet known that in comparison the present big instruments, including the Lick telescope, will be like little less than toy appliances. Senator Dr. Little, of Colombia, is the wizard who proposes to produce all these marvels, and at present the doctor is in Washington conferring with scientific men and officials as to the best mode of procedure. Dr. Alban has with him letters from the government and from prominent American and French residents of Bogota. He has served as procurator general of Colombia, and is well-known as a scientist of high standing. His plan for a telescope embraces the principle of reflecting mirrors with several radial changes from the old methods. A new medium is used, in the first place, for the mirrors themselves, and then for focal adjustment. Instead of the present method of moving the eye piece, the mirror itself is moved to obtain the proper adjustment. Dr. Alban has already built an instrument, twenty-five inches in diameter, which has been exhibited in New York, and which has shown marvelous power. An instrument of four yards diameter will only weigh two hundred pounds, and unless the eminent inventor has made a very great miscalculation will have such power as to bring the moon within one mile of the earth and allow observers to finally determine the structure and question of the practicability of life existing on that luminary.

An article recently published in the Courier des Etats Unis contains an account of a somewhat similar telescope which was expected to be prepared by the grand exhibition in Paris in 1900. It is interesting to know that Dr. Alban has developed his plan before the French apparatus was thought of, and that if further success crowns his efforts the credit of this great leap in astronomical knowledge to the American continent, while the United States will be the scene of its practical development and operation.

LOCOMOTIVES FOR THE FAIR.

Interesting English Railway Exhibits to Be Sent to the World's Fair.

The prospects for a magnificent and comprehensive exhibit in the department of transportation are exceedingly bright. The recent business trip of Clem Smith to Europe was attended with far more successful gratifying results than were anticipated. While the most famous shipbuilders of Great Britain will send the largest and finest collection of models of battleships, cruisers, yachts, merchant vessels, steamers, etc., that ever was sent to any country for exhibition purposes, the railway feature will be quite as prominent. The leading English railways are fully aroused to the importance of being adequately represented. The London & Northwestern railway will send over a complete train of cars headed by the superb compound locomotive Great Britain. This will afford an opportunity of contrasting the English compartment style of travelling and sleeping cars with our own improved Wagner and Pullman methods. The same railway will also show specimens of their permanent way and give practical illustrations of their signaling system. The London, Chatham & Dover railway will send the "Lord of the Isles," the famous old seventeen-foot gauge locomotive which was built for that road.

Black Hills Minerals.

An interesting exhibit for the world's fair is to come from the Black Hills, S. D., which will display in novel form the minerals found in the hills. The exhibit, when arranged, will be in the form of a two-story-and-a-half cottage. The framework of the structure is already built, and is in the style of the renaissance, with towers and numerous gables. It is impossible to decide on all details, of course, until the material has been collected, but the following plan will be carried into effect as near as possible: The foundation will be made of pure white limestone headed with a layer of Buffalo Gap "calico" stone. The first story will be veneered with pink quartz. Above that the handsome rocks obtainable will be copper, mica, schist, needle, spar, garnet, etc. The lower part of the tower will be made of rubies and the upper part of some sparkling substance. The windows and shutters are to be of mica and the steps of marble. The cottage will no doubt prove an attractive feature of the exhibition.

The Ice Age.

An exhibit of the ice age is being prepared in Ohio for the world's fair by Prof. J. F. Wright. He will collect boulders from different parts of the state, and with them fragments from the original ledges in Canada from which the Ohio boulders were brought by the ice, and specimens of the stones exhibit a large glacial map of Ohio, an outline map showing the course the boulders have been brought, placing the principal glacial facts, etc.
